

PARK FOR SLUMS OF JERSEY CITY.

Plans Perfected and Site Chosen in "Little Italy."

WOMEN BACK PROJECT.

Amusements for Boys and Girls.
Chief of Police Approves
the Suggestion.

The children of the slums of Jersey City are to have a playground if the plans made by the Town Improvement Committee of the Jersey City Woman's Club do not miscarry.

Mrs. Hudepeth Benson, as chairman of the committee, has worked hard during the past month to get city officials and others who have it in their power to further the scheme interested in it, and has found nearly every one in favor of placing a park in the locality suggested, about thirty-seven lots, forming a portion of the block on Merseles street, between Third and Fourth streets. This locality is in the heart of "Little Italy."

Mrs. Benson does not want the city to go to any great expense in improving the land. All she asks is to have the grading done and fences erected. There are two plots of land, and Mrs. Benson would have them kept separate.

The plot on Merseles street, containing twenty lots, she would have set aside for the use of boys, while the other plot of seventeen lots she would reserve for the exclusive use of girls. For the boys she plans a baseball ground, a football field and in winter a skating pond to be made by flooding the park. For the girls' playground she plans swings, flowers and shrubs.

Mrs. Benson has explained her plans in full to the city officials she has seen, and if Mayor Hoos and the Finance Board can be won over Mrs. Benson says the park is assured. Should the city grade and fence the park Mrs. Benson will strive to interest the churches, thereby raising the money for other improvements.

Chief of Police Murphy declares that such a park would be of great benefit to the locality, as it would provide a place for the boys and girls and keep them out of mischief.

GLADSTONE MEMORIAL LIBRARY FOUNDED.

A Lasting Monument to be Erected in Hawarden to the Great Statesman.

London, Oct. 21.—"To the glory of God and to the lasting memory of William Ewart Gladstone, I beg to lay this stone," were the words with which the Duke of Westminster last week performed the ceremony at the founding of the Gladstone Memorial Library at Hawarden.

The building, which will be of Gothic architecture, and for which $50,000 has been collected, will be erected in close proximity to the temporary library which was built under Mr. Gladstone's supervision. The books were not only personally selected by the deceased statesman, but were carefully arranged by him, and when they are transferred to the new building the arrangement will be strictly followed.

There were about three hundred people present at the ceremony, among them being the Bishop of St. Asaph, Dean Wickham, of Lichfield, the Hon. Mrs. W. H. Gladstone, Rev. Harry and Mrs. Drew, Rev. S. E. Gladstone, his wife, and the Misses Gladstone, Mr. Herbert Gladstone, and other members of the family. The service was conducted by the warden and the sub-warden.

The granite foundation stone records that: "In this building, erected to his memory by a grateful nation, is preserved the library of William Ewart Gladstone, who, eminent no less as a theologian than as a statesman, established this foundation for the advancement of divine learning. This stone was laid in the presence of the Lord Bishop of the diocese by the Duke of Westminster, K. G., on October 5, 1899.—G. C. Joyce, Warden."

LONG ISLAND SHOOTING GOOD THIS SEASON.

Wild Fowl Plentiful, and There Will Be Plenty of Deer.

The wild fowl shooting season on Long Island, which opened on October 1 and will continue until May 1, already gives promise of being one of the best in many years. Gunners are unusually enthusiastic, and many trips in the bay in search of wild ducks have been planned. The ducks will begin to fly in clouds as soon as cold weather sets in.

Though it is yet too early to find broad-bills, ruddy ducks and redheads in large flocks, good sport is being had at the east end with scoters and black ducks.

The law for shooting quail will not be raised until November 1. After that date hunting will be general all over Long Island. The presence of big flocks of quail in different sections has been reported, and there will be some lively shooting during the first days of the season. The birds are not only plentiful, but strong and of good size.

The deer hunting season on Long Island will also begin November 1. Deer can be shot on the Wednesdays in that month. Already many deer have been seen in the section from Central Park to the west to Manor on the east. That is the real deer section of the island.

HALF A MILE OF TROLLEY FEED WIRE STOLEN.

Thieves Who Crippled the Line Believed to Be Discharged Employees.

The New Jersey Electric Railway was completely crippled yesterday owing to a bold theft of trolley wire. After the system had shut down on Friday night thieves went to work on the feed wires and removed 750 yards.

The wire was stolen for a distance of nearly half a mile. The robbery was not discovered until the company was about to resume operations yesterday morning. The cars refused to move when they reached the place where the wire had been cut, and an investigation showed what the trouble was.

A suspension of the running of the cars inconvenienced hundreds, and the linemen of the company had hard work to replace the wires stolen. It is believed that the thieves were discharged linemen of the company.

TRUCK LOAD SET AFIRE IN THE STREET BY BOYS.

Mischiefous Lads Stealing a Ride Cause a Flurry in Eighteenth Street.

A double truck owned by Peter Wolf & Co., dealers in mattresses there, at No. 293 Pearl street, caught fire on Eighteenth street, at Seventh avenue, about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The truck was being driven by August Koenig, and unknown to him, some boys had jumped on the back. One of the boys had a light in a box, which he was swinging.

Johann Hoff
ON NECK LABEL.

The success achieved by Johann Hoff in making his Malt Extract known all over the Globe, and highly recommended by the medical faculties and scientific societies, has induced a whole army of imitators and unscrupulous dealers to put up their own so-called "malt extracts" and to recommend them to their customers (victims) as "just as good," because they make more profit on the sale of these spurious preparations. These "just-as-good-and-better" preparations of their own make are nothing but ordinary bottled beers. There is a vast difference between these cheap so-called malt extracts and the genuine JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT. By the process of brewing beer the diastase is all converted into alcohol. In JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT the diastase is retained in its original form. Diastase is the active starch-converting principle in malt. Note what Professor Coleman says in his lecture in comparing the starch-converting power of JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT versus the best known brews in the world. How much better must it be than all the raft of these cheap substitutes of unknown makes offered to you as "just as good." Do not be deceived, but insist every time upon having the genuine JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT, and take no other.

EXPERIMENTS Made by Professor Coleman, of Glasgow, and Reported to the Philosophical Society of Glasgow.

Fifty grams of bread were digested, at blood heat, with 200 C. C. of water, made faintly alkaline with sodic hydrate. The total dissolved solids were then estimated, after digestion, for six hours at blood heat, and filtration in the usual way. These experiments demonstrated that, with twenty-four hours' digestion, 50 grams of Hoff's liquid dissolved 50 per cent of the starch of 50 grams of bread, and that it requires four times as much of any others to effect the same result. The total result is as follows, the bread used in each case being of the same weight:—

	Per Cent of Starch Dissolved.		Per Cent of Starch Dissolved.
The Burton Ale	5	The Wrexham Ale	25
The London Porter	40	HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT	60

The importance of an agent like Johann Hoff's Malt Extract upon the digestion and nutrition may be estimated when it is considered that starch forms so large a proportion of the diet of man that in its natural state, or even if it is not soluble in the sense of being capable of absorption through a membrane (although it may become partly or sticky), and that before it can be absorbed by the assimilative organs it must become soluble. JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT is for sale by all dealers, or 3 cases (1 dozen bottles) of JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT will be delivered upon receipt of price, $3.50.
